The King's Tour Round the World.

Our last previous advices left His Majesty outward bound from Singapore. The mail which came to hand by the Lady Lampson, brings us particulars of the journey from thence to Suez, from which we con- Pembo. dense the following:

MALACCA AND PENANG.

The steamer Mecca, carrying the Royal party, left Singapore at 4 P. M. on May 12th and at 8 o'clock on the following morning arrived at Malacca, another British settlement. This ancient city was long in the hands of the Portuguese, and was up to the time of the occupation of Pulo Penang by the British, the most important centre of trade in that part of the world. Here His Majesty and Suite paid a visit to His Ex. E. F. Birch, Gov. of the settlement by whom the King was most courteously received. The forenoon was spent in sight-seeing. The town, although not now containing more than 20,000 inhabitants retains many evidences of its former importance. There is an ancient Chinese cemetery there, which is said to contain the graves of half a million of Chinamen, although the present Chinese population of the place is exceptionally small. During his stay His Majesty was resented with some fine Malacca walking canes. The place is celebrated for these canes, made from a variety of bamboo, scarcely known elsewhere, which grows with a solid heart. The Mecca sailed again at 2 P. M. for Penang, off which town she anchored at 8 o'clock on the morning of the 15th, after a run of 42 hours. Here His Ex. the Governor of the Island, Mr. McNair, accompanied by a number of the influential gentlemen of the place, went on board in a | tion is a peculiar one, the sovereign being steam launch which was placed at His elected by ballot in the most Democratic Majesty's disposal. The day was Sunday, American missionaries, who went there and His Majesty had intended to remain on first in 1819, and which teaching has reboard till the following morning, but con- sulted in a steady upward progress in sented to accept the pressing invitation of civilization. It is but two generations the Governor to drive to his residence. situated about four miles from the landing place. The way lay first through fine streets bordered by beautiful gardens and then by a road through groves of the Cocoa Straits Times. " His Majesty King David Kalakana of Hawail arrived in Penang in the B. I. S. N. Coy's s. s. Mecca at about 9 a. m. yesterday. His Honor the Acting Lieut. Governor, Major McNair, R. E., C. M. G., and Major Hamilton, Commanding the Detachment of H. M.'s 3rd Buffs, accompanied by the Harbour Master. Lieutepant Fox, R. N. R., proceeded to the vessel in the Government steam launch as soon as the former anchored. After a stay of an hour and a half on board, during which time breakfast was disposed of, His Majesty landed at the Jetty with the abovementioned local officials, and accompanied by The Hon'ble Mr. Armstrong and Colonel Judd, the two officials forming his suite. A Police Guard, under the command of Inspectors Faulkner and Newlands, and supervised by Assistant Superintendent Bell, received His Highness with full Police honors. This ordeal disposed of, His Highness entered the Lieutenant Governor's carriage, drove off to and remained His Honor's guest at Suffolk House till late in the afternoon. when, after a drive, he visited " Edinburgh Castle," and ascending the Tower attached to it, enjoyed a fine view of the Town of Penang and its environs. Thence His Majesty, after expressing himself greatly pleased at the treat Mr. K. S. Tat had afforded him, drove down to the Jetty and embarked under the same arrangements as those which were made for his landing, with the exception that Inspector Faulkner was in sole charge of the Police Guard, Superintendent Maxwell doing duty for the absent Inspector and Assistant Superintendent who were present in the morning.

"We are informed, that before His Majesty landed he was graciously pleased to receive a deputation from the Masons of Penang. The Provincial District Grand Master, Mr. Gottlieb, accompanied by the principal officers of the local Lodge, waited on His Majesty and welcomed him to Penang. His Highness replied in very appropriate and feeling terms. We are promised a full report of what took place on the occasion for our next issue.

"His Majesty, we are informed, desired particularly that his visit to Penang should be strictly an incognito one, so much so indeed that he declined to have the Hawaiian flag hoisted while he was landing in the Rosebud, not desiring to be saluted, as he would have been, by H. I. R. M's Manof-war Nayezdnik then in harbour.

"His Majesty left to-day for Moulmein and Rangoon, and after an extensive tour through India he purposes proceeding to Europe. The principal object he has in view, we believe, is to take steps to repopulate his Kingdom by immigration, and by visiting the different countries of civilization, literally read, mark, learn, and thereafter take such steps as may lay in his power to improve the condition of the country he rules over."

A HOURI. Shortly after eleven o'clock the following morning (May 16th) the Meeca sailed for Moulmein. Among the passengers was a Burmese lady, who styled herself a Princess, but followed the profession of dancing. She had with her six musicians and her ing by Messrs. Macaulay and Kirsch on behalf of Government, and Mr. Lambert, behalf of Government, and Mr. Lambert, Kalakaua, couched in high flown language, offering to sing and dance before him, as she had done before all the Rajahs, Princes, and Kings, from Bombay to Siam. After enquiry as to the character of the lady, the King permitted the exhibition. An awning was spread over the after deck, a stage and a green room improvised, the musicians with their strange instruments ranged themselves on the stage and then appeared the "Princess of the Night." The Princess was attired in some spangled black stuff and with outstretched arms held a circular veil of black gauze, covered with stars and pearls. She also wore a handsome tiara of pearls which even in the East had cost some $700. Her singing and dancing is described as being very like the Hawailan Hula, but without any of those gesticulations which so often offend the and eyes which took all hearts by storm.

RANGOON. Rangoon was reached on the 22d, where the English Commissioner entertained His Majesty at Government House. This restof Rangoon, being a pleasant country seat situated in a handsome park. The day being Sunday the King attended service at the chapel of St. John's College. The following day was spent in visiting all the places of interest in Rangoon-the pagodas, markets, schools, and the bazaar, etc. In the evening the Commissioner gave a dinner party in honor of his guest, at which all the high officials of the territory were present. The Rangoon Gazette thus announces His Majesty's visit. We give the article as it stands. Whilst sagely saying that "the generality of Europeans know little about Hawaii," the Editor illustrates

: A Royal visitor has arrived at Rangoon, in the Pemba, King Kalakand, of Hawaii or rather of the Sandwich Islands, of which Hawaii is the largest and the royal residence. The generality of Europeans know little about Hawaii since its civilization, although the old tales of sea voyages, commencing with that of Captain Cook, have given them the unenviable title, now no longer justifiable, of the Cannibal Islands. We believe the King is the same one who came to the throne in 1874, and was known before as Colonel David Kalakand or Kalakana, having been Colonel of the Household Guards during the reigns of three previous Kings. The intense heat of an Indian summer seems to have been felt very much by the King and by all his suite, both during the time they spent in Calcutta, and during the subsequent railway journey across the Peninsula. the visit to India was made so short and hurried. The following account of His Majesty's arrival is taken from the Calcutta English-

After staying a short time in England, he will visit the Continent of Europe, after which King Kalakaua will return home via England, and America, arriving in November. In Calcutta, after landing, the remainder of the Saturday evening was devoted to visiting the Zoological Gardens and to listening to a concert in the City Park. His Majesty was accompanied by Mr. Harrison during these rambles. On the following day Sir Richard Garth, the Chief Justice of Bengal, paid a visit to His Majesty. The last afternoon in Calcutta was devoted to a visit to the Courts under the escort of Sir Richard, and to a call upon Lady Garth. At the Court His Majesty was interested in listening to several cases conducted wholly by native lawyers, although the entire proceedings

A halt was made at Benares, where the Commissioner, Mr. E. Daniels, was waiting with carriages to 1 weive His Majesty. Here the heat was found intense, 115°, and even more, in the shade. Nevertheless, a reasonable amount of sight-seeing was got through, the "Sacred City" being full of objects of interest. At one o'clock on the following day, June 1st, the Royal party again took the cars and went straight through to Bombay, where they arrived on the morning of the 3d. Railway travelling in India was not found very interesting after the first novelty wore off, and, in consequence of the heat, travelling proved to made by the community. The trip to the mouth of the Hooghly was somewhat protracted, hence it was late in the afternoon of Saturday before our travellers according to the custom on English raillanded at Calcutta, where they were reways. AT BOMBAY. After the somewhat dreary and uneventful journey across India, Bombay appears to have been found very enjoyable by the Royal party. The steamer for Suez did not sail until June 7th, and the interval was devoted by His Majesty to sight-seeing. Saturday was given up to shopping and visiting the bazaars and public buildings in the city. On the 5th and 6th the ommissioner's yacht was placed at His Majesty's disposal, and everything worth seeing in the vicinity of Bombay appears to have been visited-from the Arab Stallion Stables and Tamasetjee Norroyee's Indian furniture manufactory to the University Library and the Parsee's Tower of Silence. A bare enumeration of the places visited is quite a lengthy affair. Bombay is notable for the splendid fortunes that have been made (and lost) there, both by British residents and by natives of the country. It is also notable for the splendid use that has been made of their wealth by many of these merchant-princes. Educational and charitable institutions founded and maintained by individual munificence are more numerous in Bombay than even in the oldest and most populous of European cities. His Majesty appears to have visited all these, besides a great number of other places of interest. This sight-seeing and some visiting made the short stay in Bombay a busy one. The one sight, however, par excellence of the neighborhood—the Temple Caves of Ellora-the Royal party do not seem to have had time to visit. On the Sunday His Majesty received a visit from the Hon.Sir Jamsetjee Jeejeeboy, and subsequently visited this enlightened and hospitable baronet at his residence. Mazagon Castle. Here a pleasant hom was passed in conversation. Later on, when leaving the Hospital which has been built by Sir Jamsetjee Jeejeeboy, His Majesty was reminded of home by being presented with a lei. This garland was made of flowers of delicious fragrance
